

Shackleton's Endurance Expedition : Further Reading

Author		Title
C. Alexander	:	The Endurance - a very good account with a number of Hurley's photographs and an interesting chapter on what happened to them all afterwards.
M Bound	:	The Ship Beneath the Ice – The Discovery of Shackleton's Endurance - A riveting account written by the director of exploration
R Huntford	:	Shackleton - rather solid tome but an excellent read. Huntford is a master of his brief with very interesting biographies of Nansen and a joint study of Scott and Amundsen (The Last Place on Earth)
A Lansing	:	Endurance - Not the photographs of the Alexander book above but a very strong narrative.
E Shackleton	:	The Heart of the Antarctic
E Shackleton	:	South. The Endurance Expedition - Shackleton's own accounts, with help, of the earlier Nimrod and later Endurance expeditions.
M Smith	:	Shackleton: By Endurance We Conquer - more recent very readable biography
F Worsley	:	Shackleton's Boat Journey - still my favourite account – Worsley, skipper of the Endurance and an amazing navigator, was a natural raconteur. If you only want to read one book on the topic, this is it.
J Wright	:	South With Endurance - coffee table format with all Hurley's photographs. Excellent.
